

THE NATIONAL DRINK

The sturdy German people are noted for their domestic simplicity in home life.

The American people are fast recognizing the Teutonic diet and are speedily adopting it.

Our "OLD GERMAN LAGER" adds zest and relish to the plainest meal. It is a food in itself, and is entirely different from any beer you have tasted.

—It has that imported flavor.

STARTING A PAPER.

Starting a newspaper on paper is one of the most economical forms of amusement. It does no harm to talk about it; but once the paper has progressed beyond the conversational stage it begins to get dangerous. In the last few weeks the following statements have been made as absolute fact:

The Democrats have raised $75,000 and are going to start a daily paper. The Progressives are going to start a weekly paper that will eventually grow into a daily.

All of which is a reminder that it costs money to transfer divers and sundry thoughts to the cool and calculating type of the printer—said printer being almost the sole beneficiary. The Intermountain Republican was started in Salt Lake six years ago on a shoestring. A daily paper was born and thrust upon the world upon a capital of $30,000, most of which was in "plant" of uncertain value. That institution absorbed nearly $350,000 before it got anywhere near buying the Herald, three years later.

The Democrats may start a paper. They wouldn't support a tolerable weekly that Mike Cunningham started a few years ago, but they now have more than hope to go on, so they may be encouraged. But if any man inspects the Salt Lake field and finds a howling demand for another paper, it will be because he doesn't know anything about newspapers and their field.
